Dear Ms. Henney:

I strongly urge you save human lives by banning the use of all antibiotics in animal feed.

Adding antibiotics to animal feed can make bacteria resistant to those antibiotics. This can leave physicians with no way to treat life-threatening bacterial infections in humans.

As an FDA Commissioner, I would hope that you would try to prevent any type of artificial means of making animals larger for slaughter. But this method is more than false, it is dangerous and ill-advised.

Sincerely,
